

Blue Sushi Sake Grill Is Headed To Uptown

The chain will open its third Texas outpost next year

Amy McCarthy

November 18, 2016

After successfully opening two Texas restaurants, Blue Sushi Sake Grill is planning to make its DFW footprint a little bigger next year.

Announced via release, the Nebraska-based Flagship Restaurant Group will open its third outpost of Blue Sushi Sake Grill at 3230 McKinney Avenue. According to Flagship CEO Nick Hogan, the restaurant has long had its eyes on Uptown, and considering Blue Sushi Sake Grill's late night and happy hour menus, it seems like a pretty solid fit.

The first Texas outpost of Blue Sushi Sake Grill opened in Fort Worth in 2010, and the Dallas outpost in Preston Hollow followed last year. Both locations have been proven to be popular with diners, evidenced by largely positive Yelp! reviews and frequently packed dining rooms.

Blue Sushi Sake Grill is set to debut in Uptown by the end of Fall 2017. In the meantime, you'll have to head north (or west!) for your sushi fix.

<http://dallas.eater.com/2016/11/18/13677106/dallas-blue-sushi-sake-grill-opening-uptown-2017>

